Gifted Network Meeting: Effectively Using Interactive Whiteboards with Gifted Learners

Online Category: Gifted

Date: Tuesday, January 31, 2012 (Weather- Related Cancellation Day - February 16, 2012)
Time: Registration: 8:30 am Meeting: 9:00 am –11:00 am Networking: 11:00 am - 11:30 am
Location: The Conference & Training Center at IU 13, 1020 New Holland Avenue, Lancaster, PA 17601
Presenter: Melissa Duckwitz, Educational Technology Specialist for Promethean, is a certified elementary teacher with a Master's degree in Education. She has been offering consultation and training in educational technology for three years. Prior to her work with Promethean, Missy taught in a self-contained classroom, working with students at all academic levels.

Description: This meeting was created in response to a request for more training on how to effectively use interactive whiteboard technology to extend and enrich the gifted curriculum. The concern is that equipment and software are readily available in classrooms, but many teachers do not understand how to best use them to add rigor and enrichment to classes populated with gifted learners. This session will go over tips and ideas for extension activities to effectively reach gifted students, including the Promethean board and software. This training will be beneficial regardless of the type of interactive whiteboard available in your school.

Target Audience: Gifted Education Teachers and Regular Education Teachers (co-teaching with gifted support teachers and/or working with students who are gifted)

Cost: No Cost for 2011-12 IU 13 Gifted Network Members. $35 for Non-Members. Everyone welcome!

Live Video Streaming: Individual Connection Fee: $25 (Act 48 Credit available)
 Host Site Connection Fee: $75 (Multiple participants with Act 48 Credit offered)
 Contact Janice Estabrook for details - Deadline for video stream registration: January 24, 2012
