

The Ideal Learning Experience

Transforming learning communities from the "Industrial Age" to the Ideal Learning Experience for EVERY learner

Engagement ... Motivation ... Empowerment!

Join nationally recognized expert Linda Laughlin to explore how customized learning concepts, strategies, and tools can help us create truly learner-centered communities. Mass Customized Learning (MCL) is a vision for transforming traditional industrial-age structures to customizing structures that allow a learning community to provide the Ideal Learning Experience for every one of their learners. Our session will focus on defining the "what" and "why" of the MCL Vision. We will break down MCL implementation into eight key components and study how they work together as a system. Participants will assess their own understanding of MCL and reflect on their roles as transformational leaders.

Presenter:

Linda Laughlin

Linda Laughlin is the Executive Director of The Collaborative for Customized Learning and the Chief Facilitation Officer for the Mass Customized Learning National Alliance. She consults with schools transforming their systems to Mass Customized Learning (MCL) Communities.

Laughlin has 40+ years of experience in education holding positions of high school teacher, high school principal, assistant superintendent, and adjunct university instructor, teaching an online course on curriculum, instruction, and assessment in proficiency-based systems.

She has designed and delivered learning experiences focused on leadership, instruction, strategic design, and learning progression development for leaders and learning facilitators (teachers) who are transforming their systems.
