You know those stories that keep you up late at night, turning pages because you just HAVE to know what happens next? Well, if you've ever wondered how authors go about creating that kind of magic, this workshop is for you! Whether you like your stories scary, spooky, thrilling, or mysterious, author Lindsay Bandy will share tips and strategies that will help you to keep your readers in suspense. There will be plenty of variety throughout the day, including sample stories and short videos, interactive brainstorming and plotting activities, and time to relax and write with other students who love writing just as much as you do. You'll leave with a completed short story just right for sharing around a campfire or turning pages late into the night!

Space is limited—register early to secure your spot!
